

Contents

Introduction	page 7
All about cross country	page 8
Tools of the trade	page 10
The man
The machine
Part one - the basics	page 15
Landings	page 16
The circuit
Final approach
Variables of the landing pattern
Field landings	page 26
What is an outlanding?
Decision heights
Field selection
Circuit planning
Setting up the final approach
Impossible landings
After the landing
Outlanding guides
The speed polar	page 42
Climbing techniques	page 46
Flying the glider
Finding the thermal
Entering the thermal Centring
When and how to leave the thermal
Cruising techniques	page 60
Mc Cready's theory
Limits of the theory
Mc Cready simplified
Safety	page 66
Lookout
Currency
Knowing your glider
Spin familiarity
Safety in thermal flying
Safety in ridge flying
Knowing your limits

Part two - flying cross-country page 89

Climbing strategies

page 90

- Finding lift
- Selecting lift
- The working height band
- Being low
- Blue days

Cruising strategies

page 114

- Lift patterns
- Energy routes
- Cloud streets
- Following high terrain
- Convergences
- Dolphin flying
- The long glide
- The final glide

Practice

page 129

- Reading the sky
- Reading the terrain
- Finding a purpose for every flight
- Bad habits
- Centring, climbing and more games
- Mini-tasks

D-Day

page 134

- Picking the day
- Task selection
- Preparation
- Selecting wing loading
- The start
- On course
- Navigation
- Finishing the task

Part three - making it better	page 151
Psychology and physiology	page 152
Motivation
The mindset
Intuition and decisions
Physical and psychological disease
Nutrition, hydration and rest
Glider tuning	page 170
Maintenance and small improvements
Greater improvements
Onboard systems
Ergonomics and comfort
Weight and balance
Instruments
Flight analysis	page 195
The quality of decisions
Flight analysis tools
Climbing performance
Gliding performance
General information
Comparing flights
Broadening your horizons	page 203
Two seater flights
Lead and follow
Training weeks
Competitions
Flying from new locations
FAI badges and virtual competitions
Bibliographic references	page 210
Internet resources	page 211